

Think in Decades, Not Days

BEGINNERFURTHER READING

Want to go deeper on market timing and long-term investing? These are free, reputable, well-known resources worth bookmarking.

■ Investor.gov

<https://www.investor.gov/>

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's official investor education site. Search “market timing” or “dollar-cost averaging” for plain-English guidance on why trying to call market tops and bottoms is so hard.

■ Investopedia

<https://www.investopedia.com/>

A huge library of plain-English financial explainers. Try searching “time in the market vs timing the market” and “behavioral finance” for beginner-friendly deep dives on why investors tend to buy high and sell low.

■ U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC)

<https://www.sec.gov/>

The official U.S. markets regulator. Publishes investor alerts and bulletins, including guidance on the risks of chasing short-term market moves.

Please note: these are general educational resources, not personalized financial advice. Always do your own research or speak with a licensed financial advisor before making investment decisions specific to your circumstances.